April Members Meeting

Any one else feel like brewing in the rain? If not come join us for another fun filled month with you brewing companions.

We will start things off with a monthly meeting, this month we will be meeting on April 13th 7PM @ Municipal Brew Works - Spooky Nook. This monthly meeting will be one to remember!

We will start off with our KART presentation by Matt Cutter. This month we will be talking with Omega Yeast. Omega Yeast is one of the bigger yeast providers to the brewing industry and also homebrewers. Gregor Bower, the Director of Sales/ Director of Quality, will talk with us about how Omega finds and propagates yeast, and delve a bit into genetic engineering of yeast. One current topic is yeast-derived haze in beers.

Next, we have to release the results from our 2025 BCBS Throwdown. Who will get a chance to have their beer brewed and served at Cincinnati Sam Adams Taphouse.

Did you hear the results from the 2025 Hamilton's St. Patties O'Dora Dash? We if your here you will find out how BCBS represented!

Finally lets break out your homebrews. Please bring and share any homebrew you have. Questions about an off flavor? Just want to know what other people think? Ask any one of your BCBS friends for an honest review!

AHA Big Brew Day

May 3rd! May 3rd! May 3rd! Have we got a great day planned for you. Starting at 7am BCBS will be meeting at MBW Spooky Nook. Municipal is going to brew a base wort for us. We are currently looking at a base recipe consisting of mostly 2-row and some Vienna Malt. We can provide the exact recipe once we nail it down this week. What you do with it from there is up to you. There is plenty of room to finish your brew on site and inside. They can turn on the ventilation so if the weather is not agreeable we can still brew with propane inside. There is also electric outlets available. To reserve a spot or get specific details about electric please reach out to your VP Steve Hackman via email @ stevehackman6505@aol.com. Lets see what everyone can change this base recipe into!!!
